

pent his injustice. Then as I loved him, my heart grew tender at the thought of the pain he would feel when my hour of triumph came. For the first time I doubted of the possibility of this triumph. I could not rejoice if he suffered. We were one. I threw myself on the ground, rested my head on Kenelm's footstool, and cried myself to sleep. I suppose I was thoroughly worn out. I must have slept many hours. It was dusk when the opening of the door and my husband's step in the passage roused me. I heard him enter every room in the house before he came into the study; this, and my not detecting the sound of the turning of a key, staggered me in my belief that I had been locked in; but I would not think that I had been a voluntary prisoner all this while. My husband could not see me when he entered. He peered about, then hastened to the open window. "Good God! She has jumped out!" he cried. "I am here, Kenelm!" I said, rising. "You have been here all the time I have been away?" "I believe I fell asleep." "Tea is waiting in the parlour—will you make it?"

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

It is not often that we are called upon to record an instance where energy and business are combined more so signally displayed, in connection with wrecking, as in the case of the Charlie & Willie, which went ashore back of Fort Adams Thursday night. The vessel went on about high water, and being under full sail, with a strong breeze, went well up on the rocks, her low high out of water. Captain John D. Northam, Underwriters' agent, took the vessel in charge, lightened her, and by the aid of a strong hawser and the good steamer Perry the vessel was adrift by midnight, and was brought into the inner harbor in safety. Dispatch was the word, and dispatch was unquestionably what saved the vessel; for had she been suffered to remain there another day, the high northwest wind and heavy sea of Saturday morning would have wrecked her.

The Non-Resistant.—Saturday was the sixth day of one of the most inveterate of non-resistants, during which we verily believe old Dorcas must have puffed until his lungs were sore. True, on Thursday, like a horse whose wind is blown, he paused for a while, but only to "take breath," for immediately the sun went down, it recommenced with its wonted vigor, and puffed away again for dear life until Saturday evening, when it slackened up again, from sheer exhaustion, and yesterday changed to a light breeze from the south.

As great an annoyance as this state of things has been to us "landmen," it has been much more so to those who "go down to the sea in ships." Some of these have been here since a week ago Saturday, and during the time have made several attempts to proceed, but have as often been driven in again by contrary winds and heavy weather. It is not often that so large a fleet of vessels is here at one time and remain so long. Yesterday morning the whole fleet left the harbor.

A farmer's horse, in coming down Pelham Street Saturday morning, exceeded, by a considerable, the rate of speed calculated on by his driver, the consequence of which was, that when he came in front of the Post Office, the contents of the wagon the animal was drawing were "spilled" on the pavements. Among these a few dozens of eggs seemed to come in for the greatest share of damage, being most essentially smashed up. The disconsolate marketman, however, managed to save some, and drove off a sadder, but not a richer man.

We are informed by Capt. John D. Northam, Underwriters' agent here, that it is his purpose, in order to test the practicability of restoring insured that has been submerged in salt water, to erect a cheap building in which to spread and dry that which is damaged. If successful, it will be a saving of several hundred dollars on this lot. He showed us some Saturday thus dried, that presented a very fair appearance. The experiment is certainly worth trying.

The Fall River Weekly News comes to us enlarged, improved, and printed on new and beautiful type. We have on former occasions spoken of this as one of the best family papers in New England, and on this occasion congratulate its enterprising publishers on this additional evidence of the appreciation in which this paper is held. The paper has just entered upon its fifteenth volume.

We understand that some of the hardy fishermen and pilots at "the Point" in this city, have contracted with two agents of the underwriters to discharge the coal from the Sarah Bagot, ashore on Beaver Tail, and that they will proceed to business as soon as the weather will permit. The work could not, we think, have been placed in better hands.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas M. Clark, D.D., will hold confirmation in the several Protestant Episcopal Churches in this city, next Sunday, the 17th inst., at 10 o'clock, in the morning, at the residence of the Rev. Mr. Clark, in the afternoon, and Zion in the evening.

PANORAMA OF THE WAR IN INDIA.

To-night the great exhibition opens. The Panorama, lecture, music, singing, automata and magic form one of the greatest combination of attractions ever presented to the public, for the exceeding low price of 15 cents. The enterprising manager, Mr. Rufus Somerby, has spared no expense to make this entertainment deserving of the great success it has met with. No exhibition has been more admired by the people or more eulogized by the press. It is said that the music by Mrs. E. B. Somerby is only equaled by her voice, which is at once rich, clear, and melodious. We promise them a succession of crowded houses.

THE SICKLES CASE.

The only witness examined on Thursday, whose testimony added much to that given by James H. Read, was Francis Doyle, whose testimony was as follows:

I was present at the time of Mr. Key's death; I was in the back room of the Club House; I looked in the direction of the Avenue, and saw Barton Key lying on the pavement, and Mr. Sickles a few feet from him, with a pistol in his hand as if about to shoot him in the head; about the time I arrived, Mr. Key said "don't shoot!" I placed my hand on Mr. Sickles's shoulder, and begged him not to fire; he desisted from firing; he turned round, as if to justify himself, and said, "he has defied" or "dishonored my bed;" I do not recollect which expression he used; he may probably have used a harsher expression; after I spoke to him he turned round, showing no further intention to fire. Mr. Butterworth was then standing on the Avenue, within a few feet of the corner; he approached and took Mr. Sickles by the arm, and walked off with him up the street. Then my attention was called to the condition of Mr. Key; he was carried into the Club House.

Q. Did you hear any other exclamation made except that you have mentioned? A. Not that I am aware of.
Q. Did you notice the dress of Mr. Sickles? A. Cannot say I did; think he had a frock coat on him; do not know whether it was an overcoat the day was a pleasant day, but I do not know that it was particularly warm. Mr. Key died almost immediately after he was carried to the Club House; I believe he breathed once.

Cross examined by Mr. Brady—I present myself as a witness; I wear one; did not notice the pistol or other article picked up; did not hear Mr. Sickles make any other remark than I have stated.

Mr. Abel Upshur examined—I was present on the occasion of Mr. Key's death; had been to church; got home about half past one; walked from home to the Club House, and there met Mr. Doyle; Mr. Tidball, and Mr. Martin; the last went out as if to go home, but soon he rushed back and told us—(objected to); he (witness) came out of the Club House; heard the report of a pistol, saw Mr. Key down, and Mr. Sickles standing over him; when, within ten or fifteen feet of them saw the pistol snap; Mr. Doyle came up and clapped his hand on the shoulder of Mr. Sickles; Mr. Sickles desisted in firing, and then turned round and observed that Mr. Key had discolored his bed, whereupon we carried Mr. Key into the Club House; I do not know whether the remark of Mr. Sickles was addressed to Mr. Doyle or to us; all think Mr. Sickles had on some kind of overcoat, cannot describe his dress; do not recollect that that day was remarkably warm. Mr. Key never spoke at all after we got to him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brady—I was in the habit of wearing an overcoat, and had on my overcoat at the time; did not see the pistol or anything else picked up; did not hear any remark from Mr. Sickles except what I have mentioned.

Mr. E. M. Tidball, sworn—I was present on the occasion of Mr. Key's death; I was at the Club House with Mr. Martin and Mr. Upshur; when I got out of the Club House I observed Mr. Key lying on the ground and Mr. Sickles standing over him, near his head, with a pistol pointing toward his head; I was half way to him when the pistol snapped; when I came up I reached my hand over to Mr. Sickles's shoulder, he stepped back and remarked instantly, "He has dishonored and defiled my bed," or "violated it;" he repeated the expression; then buttermilk came up from the corner, and took Mr. Sickles by the arm and they walked off; Mr. Key was carried into the Club House.

Q. Did you hear any expression made use of by Mr. Key? A. When we got within six or eight feet of him he cried "murder;" he never spoke after we came up. Mr. Sickles had on a brown overcoat, light pants, and a hat, it was a long overcoat, noticed it as he passed me, it was a pleasant day and quite warm.

Q. Are there any particular circumstances which impress on your mind the hour at which this occurred? A. Yes, sir; I should suppose it was about two o'clock.

Q. State a circumstance which led you to suppose that was the hour. (Objected to, and withdrawn.)

Witness is satisfied that it was about two o'clock, probably a few minutes before two. Cross-examined by Mr. Brady—Was in the habit of wearing an overcoat. Think I wore one that day; did not hear Mr. Sickles make use of any other expression, he made use of it, and repeated it very rapidly; it was said in rather a loud tone of voice; I saw a pistol lying on the ground; that was after the body was taken to the house, and I was on my way to a physician; I did not stop to pick it up; I think it was single-barreled.

It now being near three o'clock the Court adjourned.

FIFTH DAY, Friday, April 8.

The Court was opened at 10:00 this morning.

Mr. Butterworth is in town, but has not yet appeared in Court.

Beside the New Yorkers already mentioned as being here in attendance upon the trial, we notice this morning Messrs. James McDowen, Edward C. West, Richard Connolly and Charles Graham. Messrs. West and Dillon are summoned on both sides, but most of the New Yorkers present have been summoned for the defence, with the view to support the character and reputation of Mr. Woudridge, the principal witness for Mr. Sickles—an attempt to invalidate Mr. W.'s testimony being apprehended.

The object of the prosecution in summoning Messrs. West and Dillon is supposed to be connected with the marriage of Mr. Sickles.

Doubt is expressed as to the admission of justifiable evidence, and a long argument is anticipated on that point. If not admitted the trial may end on Tuesday or Wednesday next—but if admitted, the trial will not, likely, end under a week.

Thomas Woodward, coroner, was next called. He testified as follows:—Is corner of the county; held the inquest on the body of Mr. Key; on that occasion a pistol was delivered to his keeping (produces it). It is a Derringer pistol, stocked to the muzzle, plated, and about 7 inches long, with a wide rifle bore, rimmed absent. The maker's name J. G. Symes, is on the lock. Mr. Downer delivered it to him.

It is in the same condition as when delivered to him. Examined the body and clothes of Mr. Key. Have the clothes here if the District Attorney wants them; unties a handkerchief and takes from it two keys and the case of an opera glass. Cannot say whether the case was open or closed. (The counsel for the defence examined the keys.) Are ordinary brass door-keys, about three inches long.

Witness—This handkerchief was also in the pocket; I examined the body of the deceased. One ball had entered his side, another the thigh, near the artery, and there was a bruise on the right side, also a slight wound on the hand (unfolds the bundle containing the clothes, and produces a white shirt bloodstained and a grey pair of striped trousers); there is where the ball entered the right thigh; the place is stiffened and stained with blood; (deep sensation in Court.) He has not the vest or coat (witness leaves the stand to produce the vest and coat, but comes back without them and says he cannot get the vest and coat).

District Attorney—We can do without them.

Q. Was there any evidence in the vest or coat of penetration of—Mr. Stanton? A. We object to that; let us have the clothes District Attorney—Very well, you will have them.

After some time the clothes were produced. Witness—This, sir, is the vest. There is the hole made by the ball, on the left side. (Sensation.)

Question—Is there any other mark in the vest? Witness—Yes; here is another hole in the right side.

Judge—Both are on the right side, are they? District Attorney, to the Jury—I suppose you can see these marks, gentlemen?

Judge—If they wish it, the vest can be handed to them. The vest was here handed to the jury. It is of grey, striped material, same as the pants.

Witness—Here is a hole in the side of the coat—(Holds it up to the light.) The coat is of tweed material and of a brownish hue.

Mr. Brady—I do not see the materiality of this examination. District Attorney—We are through with this witness.

Mr. Brady asked to suspend the cross-examination as to the clothes till he had time to examine them.

The Judge said that course might be taken.

Mr. Brady (on suggestion of Mr. Stanton).—Never mind; we will go on now.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brady—I found one handkerchief in Mr. Key's pocket; think I found the case of an opera glass in the side pocket of the coat—(Mr. Stanton examines the coat—there was one inside and one outside breast pocket, and two side pockets).

Q. What pockets were in the pants? Witness. Two pockets and a small watch pocket; in the vest there were four pockets—two on each side, above and below; found nothing else.

Eugene Pendleton was the next witness. He gave no additional particulars except as confirming the account of a scuffle between Messrs. Sickles and Key.

Dr. Knollidge sworn—Made two examinations of the body, and a partial one at the Club House; when I first saw the deceased, his clothing were on coat, vest, and pants; did not remove any of the clothing entirely from the body, but opened the clothes to see where the wounds were; deceased had not ceased to breathe when I first saw him; at that partial examination, I saw one wound on the left side, between the 10th and 11th ribs, the ball having evidently traversed the body three and one-half inches above the hip bone on the left side, and seven inches from the centre of the back, around the chest and under the clothing on the opposite side, above the hip bone; I felt, two inches below the groin, another wound; the ball passed through the thigh; that is all I saw at the partial examination; after the coroner summoned me, the clothes were removed from the body by Dr. Stone and myself, in the presence of the coroner and the jury; in removing the clothing, a wad was found on the left side; but whether that wad was between the coat and waistcoat or between the waistcoat and shirt, I do not know; I first saw it as it was falling on the floor.

Question—On the left side, you say? Witness—There was one on the left side. I handed it to some one of the jury. After stripping the body I discovered, in the immediate vicinity of the tail, about the eighth rib, a slight contusion or abrasion of the skin. On examining the coat and waistcoat I found them perforated by a ball, which, in my opinion, made the abrasion of the skin. It could not be made from the contusion from the inside of the first ball. I also thought that I found a wad there, and I may have said so at the time, but it proved to be a piece of cotton with which the waistcoat was stuffed, and which was probably black and white, but whether it was black or not by the passage of the ball I cannot say. The following morning, eighteen hours after the death, a post mortem examination was made by Dr. Stone and myself.

Dr. Stone, who assisted at the post mortem examination, testified as to the character of the wound, identifying the ball which was taken from the body.

The jury took a recess at six o'clock for five minutes.

After recess Mr. James N. Reed was recalled.

The District Attorney—You stated yesterday when you saw these parties at the corner you saw a pistol in the hand of the party at the south. Was there any pistol in the hand of the other party?

Witness—No, sir. Nothing in his hand. P. V. R. Van Wyke recalled—Could not from where he stood distinguish what was in the hand of either party in the contest.

Charles H. Wilder examined—Was present at the Club House at half past 2 o'clock on the day of Mr. Key's death, went into the room where Mr. Key was lying, and remained there till the close of the coroner's examination; assumed a sort of charge over the body till the Mayor came, when the Mayor requested Mr. White to take charge; Mr. White kept charge till the coroner came; everything was taken from the pockets of Mr. Key; there were the case of an opera glass, some keys and some money; they were passed over to the coroner, and by him handed to me. Mr. Smith—These were all the articles taken except a pair of sleeve buttons and a ring, which were taken by Mr. Taylor, a connection of Mr. Key's.

The prosecution here rested.

The counsel for Mr. Sickles asked the Court to require the prosecution to call Messrs. Butterworth, Walker, and Walbridge as witnesses on their side; these gentlemen being acquainted with the whole transaction. The motion was argued at length, but the Judge decided against it, and the Court then adjourned for the day.

The Sickles Case.

WASHINGTON, April 9.
The case for the defense of Sickles opens this morning. It is expected that Mr. Graham will consume the whole day in the opening address. His associates would prefer brevity in the opening. They wish to reserve their plan of operations for the present, to say nothing of Mr. Key except that immediately connected with the transaction, and to withhold comments on the prosecution.

There has been no attempt to account for the disparity between the size of the bullet extracted from the body and the bore of the Derringer found in the street. The defense deny that the Derringer belonged to Mr. Sickles. No effort has been made to trace it to him, and the defense will make the most of this circumstance, and claim that it belonged to Mr. Key, and perhaps that the first shot came from Mr. Key. As to the two keys found in the pocket of the deceased, the idea is that they were those of the house in 10th street, the place where the meeting took place, and, if so, that circumstance will be put in evidence.

Two letters from Mr. Key to Mr. Sickles, one indignantly denouncing the insinuation made with respect to his familiarity with Mrs. Sickles, and the other accepting a subsequent invitation to dinner, will be offered in evidence. If not admitted, counsel will claim use of them before the jury. The pressure for admittance becomes greater as the case proceeds. May is present from New York; among them, John Kelly, Sheriff, John Cahoon, M. C., John Clancy, County-Clerk, and Owen Brennan. Mr. Baglioli has returned to New York. P. S. Mr. Graham's speech occupied the whole day, Saturday.

NEW ORLEANS, April 8.

FROM MEXICO.—Advices from April 1, received from Vera Cruz. Miramon, with an advanced guard of three hundred, appeared before Vera Cruz March 18, reconnoitered awhile, and retired. His main army was encamped within nine miles of the city. The women and children of Vera Cruz had been transferred to ships in the harbor.

Miramon subsequently sent twelve hundred men against Alvarado, who retired without waiting an attack. Finding himself outgeneralled at all points, Miramon broke up his camp on the 27th, and commenced a retreat towards the capital.

Degallado was at Tacubaya with four thousand troops. The capital was surrounded with liberal forces, and was expected to surrender soon. Mr. McLane, the new American Minister, arrived at Vera Cruz on the 1st, and was received with great rejoicing.
